

1850 M STREET, NW, SUITE 800
WASHINGTON, DC 20036
P 202.289.5900 • F 202.289.4141

CHLOPAK LEONARD SCHECHTER
AND ASSOCIATES

FAX COVER SHEET

From: Pamela Nieto
Fax: 202.609.6691

To: Department of Justice
Fax: 202.514.2836

1 of 3

NSD/CES/REGISTRATION
UNIT

2009 SEP 25 PM 5: 04

1850 M STREET, NW, SUITE 800
WASHINGTON, DC 20036
P 202.289.5900 ■ F 202.289.4141

CHLOPAK LEONARD SCHECHTER
AND ASSOCIATES

Memorandum

To Department of Justice
From Chlopak, Leonard, Schechter & Associates
Registration number 5774
Date September 25, 2009
Re Distributing Advisories for Foreign Agents

The attached E-Alert was sent out to members of the American Media on September 24, 2009.

NSD/CES/REGISTRATION
UNIT
2009 SEP 25 PM 5:04

Pamela Nieto

From: EgyptInfo
Sent: Thursday, September 24, 2009 9:43 AM
Subject: A Clear Path Forward for the UN on Nuclear Disarmament

Egypt E-Alert

THE HUFFINGTON POST

Former Egyptian Ambassador to the U.S. Nabil Fahmy issued a call to the UN and President Obama to make nuclear non-proliferation a top priority, ahead of today's Security Council meeting on nuclear nonproliferation chaired by the U.S.

Ambassador Fahmy is the Dean of the School of Public Affairs at the American University in Cairo and Chair of the Center for Nonproliferation studies in the Middle East.

To read the full piece on The Huffington Post website, click here.

Thursday, September 24, 2009

A Clear Path Forward for the UN on Nuclear Disarmament

By Nabil Fahmy

This week, President Obama will chair a UN Security Council meeting on nuclear nonproliferation – the first time that a US president has ever done this.

In April, the U.S. president called for a nuclear free world in a keynote speech in Prague. At the time, many dismissed the remarks as the dreamy notions of a young administration with little national security experience. But President Obama's speech was not a lone shot in the dark. Several months earlier, four Cold War era American elder statesmen - Henry Kissinger, William Perry, George Shultz and Sam Nunn - had issued a similar call.

There is a new consensus forming around the nuclear issue and a new willingness for countries to act. For years, the nuclear debate revolved around those few countries that had nuclear weapons and those - equally small in number - trying to get them. Today, the security paradigm for the nuclear world has altered. The imminent threat no longer comes from a handful of superpowers, but the potential for the acquisition of nuclear weapons by unstable regimes and non-state entities. This reality affects us all. This status quo is not acceptable.

To read more, click here.

This material is distributed by Chlopak, Leonard, Schechter & Associates on behalf of the Egyptian Press and Information Office. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.

NSD/CES/REGISTRATION
UNIT
2009 SEP 25 PM 5:04

9/24/2009

1850 M STREET, NW, SUITE 800
WASHINGTON, DC 20036
P 202.289.5900 • F 202.289.4141

CHLOPAK LEONARD SCHECHTER
AND ASSOCIATES

Memorandum

To Department of Justice
From Chlopak, Leonard, Schechter & Associates
Registration number 5774
Date September 25, 2009
Re Distributing Advisories for Foreign Agents

The attached E-Alert was sent out to members of the American Media and Think Tanks on September 24, 2009.

NSD/CES/REGISTRATION
UNIT
2009 SEP 25 PM 5:04

www.clsdc.com

INFORM. CHANGE. SOLVE.

Egypt E-Alert

THE HUFFINGTON POST

THE INTERNET NEWSPAPER | NEWS BLOGS VIDEO COMMUNITY

Former Egyptian Ambassador to the U.S. Nabil Fahmy issued a call to the UN and President Obama to make nuclear non-proliferation a top priority, ahead of today's Security Council meeting on nuclear nonproliferation chaired by the U.S.

Ambassador Fahmy is the Dean of the School of Public Affairs at the American University in Cairo and Chair of the Center for Nonproliferation studies in the Middle East.

To read the full piece on The Huffington Post website, click here.

Thursday, September 24, 2009

A Clear Path Forward for the UN on Nuclear Disarmament

By Nabil Fahmy

This week, President Obama will chair a UN Security Council meeting on nuclear nonproliferation – the first time that a US president has ever done this.

In April, the U.S. president called for a nuclear free world in a keynote speech in Prague. At the time, many dismissed the remarks as the dreamy notions of a young administration with little national security experience. But President Obama's speech was not a lone shot in the dark. Several months earlier, four Cold War era American elder statesmen – Henry Kissinger, William Perry, George Shultz and Sam Nunn – had issued a similar call.

There is a new consensus forming around the nuclear issue and a new willingness for countries to act. For years, the nuclear debate revolved around those few countries that had nuclear weapons and those – equally small in number – trying to get them. Today, the security paradigm for the nuclear world has altered. The imminent threat no longer comes from a handful of superpowers, but the potential for the acquisition of nuclear weapons by unstable regimes and non-state entities. This reality affects us all. This status quo is not acceptable.

To read more, click here.

This material is distributed by Chlopak, Leonard, Schechter & Associates on behalf of the Egyptian Press and Information Office. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.

NSD/CES/REGISTRATION
UNIT

2009 SEP 25 PM 5:06